

Lecture series - Colloquium
Research project «Great War and the Anthropocene: 'Imperial Debris' and Environmental Change in Central-Eastern Europe»

organized by Vienna University and Yaroslavl State Pedagogical University and supported by the Russian Foundation of Basic Research (RFBR) and Austrian Science Fund (FWF)

Program

12 October 2022

16:00-18:00 (CET)

Dr. Julia Zerdeva, Samara National Research University, Samara, Russia

Demilitarization vs. Remilitarization: The Transformation of the Eastern Front after World War I

9 November 2022

16:00-18:00 (CET)

Andrea Rendl, University Vienna, Vienna, Austria

Vaccination and Health Care Narratives of the Imperial and Royal Army at the Eastern Front

30 November 2022

16:00-18:00 (CET)

Oleksii Chebotarov, University of St. Gallen, Switzerland

Borderland as a Riverscape: Environmental History of the Zbruch River

14 December 2022

16:00-18:00 (CET)

David Novotny, University Vienna, Vienna, Austria

Mud, Heat and Endless Marches. Galician Landscape and Environment in the Perception of the Austro-Hungarian Soldiers, 1914-1918

11 January 2023

16:00-18:00 (CET)

Dr. Christoph Nübel, Zentrum für Militärgeschichte und Sozialwissenschaften der Bundeswehr, Potsdam, Germany

Spatializing the Soldier's War. Environment, Terrain and Landscape at the Western Front, 1914-1918

18 January 2023

16:00-18:00 (CET)

Alexandra Likhacheva

Landscapes of the First World War in the Prism of the Photographic Camera: Visualisation of the Belligerent Spaces

The colloquium takes place online via Zoom. If you are interested, please contact kerstin.von.lingen@univie.ac.at for the link!